Theme

This study day will allow the department of English to host researcher teachers and doctorate students from different disciplinary backgrounds to present and debate their thoughts and beliefs about what could be the best way of teaching foreign languages in general and English in particular as well as how research would contribute into reaching teaching excellence or, what is also coined as, quality education. The study day will also allow participants to talk about the field of translation, its pedagogy, and the role it plays in the development of scientific research.

The following trends and issues will be of particular interest but are not limited to:

1. Educational National Policy and Foreign Languages
2. Fairness vs. Care in Education
3. Learner Centred pedagogy
4. Pre and In-Service Teacher Training
5. Quality Education
6. Doctorate Students and the Challenges of Research
7. The Importance of Translation in the Development of Scientific Research
8. The Contribution of Translation in Foreign Language Learning
9. Education and ICT's
10. Computational Translation
